Critical Process Breakdown Contingency Planning

For many facilities, the most critical part of the business is the equipment that keeps the business productive. When that equipment or the systems that supports that equipment breaks down, the business can start to suffer quickly as production grinds to a halt, revenue begins to fall, profits. Short-term effects can lead to very difficult long-term consequences for the business if production is not restored quickly. Galicia Commissioning Group Inc. has the extensive experience in planning and executing the installations of temporary power generation, electrical distribution, process refrigeration, dehumidification desiccant dryers and Heating, Ventilation and Air-conditioning (HVAC) equipment to put production back online. In today's competitive global economy, minutes lost in production can have a financial consequence in the millions. From international airports, refineries or server rooms, a well-planned strategy is the key to quick recovery. Mr. Galicia has work with Boeing, Chevron, UCLA, Texaco, Verizon and LAX to name a few which have benefited from having a contingency plan and access to portable mechanical and electrical equipment.
